

providing the downstream signal to a transmitter cable of transmitting the downstream signal at the appropriate frequency;
and

transmitting the downstream signal.

50. The method of claim 46, wherein downstream signals traveling a large distance are transmitted at a lower frequency.

51. The method of claim 46, wherein said determining includes determining that the downstream signal should be transmitted at multiple frequencies.